Gubert Tide Aerial Photo Shoot Republic of South Africa

15 July 2009

Two photographers in a helicopter spent an hour shooting photos of the Gubert Tide and Desoto Tide near Capetown, South Africa. The idea was to frame the two boats underway with the famous mountains of Cape Town in the background.

The Gubert Tide is passing the Twelve Apostles Mountain Range in Cape Town, South Africa.

The person in the bridge window is me.

GUBERT TIDE

The helicopter was low to the water for this shot.

The Desoto Tide would not come close enough for a good photo, but here is one of both ships.

I've always enjoyed shots framed like this. This is one of my favorites.

The Morning sun provides interesting lighting.
